LINCOLN BURBAU OF THE UMARA BER, | 29 P STREET, LINCOLN, June 11.

The councilmanic investigating committee will hold an "executive session" before Friday's resume of the investigation, for the purpose of preparing findings on the cases of Dean and Cooper and the "bond deal." It is not known when the findings will be made public. Members of the committee are rather reticent as to this, but it is understood that they agree as to what might be called a sectional report. The opinion is freely expressed that two of the committee will favor "whitewashing" the whole business, and also favor discontinuing the investigation. This meeting of the committee, however, will test its sense and the public is naturally anxious as to its outcome. It is said that three members of the committee will report findings anything but commendatory to Dean, Cooper and the bond dealers tory to Dean, Cooper and the bond dealers who lined their pockets at the expense of the city. If the opinion of the public has any influence the investigation will go on, for it is generally conceded that it has been fruitful and will compel certain parties to disgorge and teach a lesson that boodlers or persons inclined that way will profit by. The cry that the investigation has been a farce, will not down. Citizens and taxpayers of Lincoln believe that a better future will result from it, and that this alone will warrant the expense of pushing it to the end. expense of pushing it to the end.

Class Day Exercises.

The graduating class of the state university has inaugurated "Class Day," which doubtless prove an interesting feature in future commencement programmes. Initiatory exercises, held to-day, were highly interesting and creditable alike to the institution and the class that gave them. The exercises were held in the chapel and began at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and the programme was as follows: Vocal solo ... Miss Nannie Lillibridge
General class history ... Miss Laura Haggard
Special class history ... Miss Manley
Characterization lecture ... Miss May Tower
Piano duet ... Helen B. Aughery
Class poem ... Miss Edna D. Bullock
Oration ... Tom Allen

The Alumni Association.

The annual meeting of the Alumni association was held in Nebraska hall this evening at 5 o'clock. Over one hundred members, with their friends, were in attendance. The hall was very handsomely deco rated with flags, wreaths, festoons of flow rated with fings, wreaths, festoons of flowers and pictures. The address was delivered by Prof. George E. Howard, of the chair of history. His subject was "The Origin of the Modern University." As usual, he handled his subject in a masterful manner. He went back to medieval history, giving an interesting consideration of the growth of colleges and universities, making a local application of the great good that has resulted from the establishment of institutions for higher education. The rest of the hour was spent in social communion, and it was very enjoyably passed.

Brownell Hall Sent Its Fair Graduates Yesterday Morning. At Brownell Hall yesterday morning everything was life and light and beauty at an early hour. It was the twenty-fifth annual commencement day, and the fair graduates, and the envious juniors, in fluffy gowns and smothered in roses, were in an excessively gay and buoyant mood. The hall chapel, in which the exercises took place, was redolent of the breath of sweet blossoms, and, long before the opening hour was comfortably filled with proud and expectant mamas, and smiling, admiring friends.

To the Inspiriting strains of Schubert's magnificent Marche Militaire, brilliantly performed upon the piano by Misses Fowler, Barse, Blackmore and Clark, the pupils filed into the chapel and took their seats immediately fronting the flower bedecked stage. Following these came the faculty, trustees and Rector Donerty and Bishop Worthington, the latter two taking their soats on the stage. "The Song of Spring," an entrancing se-lection, was sung by the college chorus with a gracefulness and effect that was superla-features. She wore a white silk dress, cut square in front, without flower or ornament, but very striking in its simplicity. The subject of her essay was "The Art of Conversation." It was a carefully written disquisition, replete with potent truths and choice sentiment, and was most delightfully read. It began by showing what an advantageous thing it is to be agreeable in conversation, even arguing that the successful in life owe much to their accomplishments in this line. It is the pleasurg and with talker who wins in the long run, rather than the beauty of face or grace of form. Scholarly attainments, and knowledge of business in its hundreds of phases, are of course potent factors dreds of phases, are of course potent factors in the successes of life, but one gifted with the talent of an agreeable and entertaining conversationalist rides smoothly over many places that others less favored flud rough and full that others less favored flud rough and full of tribuiation. Conversation is an art—the art of arts in fact; but it must be natural, spontaneous, and not by rote or rule. A poor talker is always a bore, a good one charming despite the cast of countenance or character of attire. The art of conversation is nature's own mirror, furnishing a true exposition of character, and being always susception of character, and being always susceptible of culture, is they fore the quintessance of tion of character, and being always susceptible of culture, is therefore the quintessence of art. The sculptor, the artist, the architect and the musician, are all combined in the master of the tongue. It was Cleopatra's wondrous strength in conversation, in the application of sweet and ingenuous words in whispered tones ingenuous words in whispered tones that vested her with such power over the hearts of men; and not her transcendantal beauty of feature and form as we are led to to believe in poetry and painting. Her robe was of white mull, a modified Greenaway costume, with tight sleeves and puffed shoulders, set off with white silk. She has a voice low and soft, and sweet as a bell, and made a decided impression in the delivery of her farewell words.

The time for parting with the class of '89 had arrived," she began with a noticeable tremor in her voice, "and it was a scene she would fain not dwell upon. The class was small, some had left the school, some dropped by the wayside, until none were left but two." She went over her life at the school, comparing the discomforts of insufficient luxuries and conveniences of to-day. Then turning to Bishop Worthington, she con-tunued: "To you, dear bishop, we extend our warmest thanks, for your visits, your warmest thanks, for your visits, your words of cheer, of comfort and advice, and if ever the clouds whelm us in the days or years to come, it will be with gladdened hearts we recall the memory of our dear bishop. And again to all of you, 1 bid a loving farewell."

Miss Buckworth, too, was the recipient of warmest applause, and flowers in the st lavish profusion. Deaf and Damb Graduates. Yesterday was the close of the school year at Iowa state institute for the deaf and dumb, and the usual graduation exercises took place. Supt. Rothert took the greatest pride in the exhibit of the work accomplished during the year, and issued a general invitation to the public to attend. This was further pleasantly emphasized by the announcement that free carriages, and busses would be found waiting at the northeast corner of the park to convey them to the institution and return to the city. The invitation was accepted by a large number, and when the hour arrived for the commencement of the exercises 2 n m, the chard was accepted.

exercises, 2 p. m., the chapel was crowded.

The exercises opened by an introductory address by Superintendent Rothert, which address by Superintendent Rothert, which was reduced to the sign language by Prof. G. L. Wyckoff, principal of the school. The superintendent spoke without hesitation and in ordinarily rapid tones, which were interpreted to the pupils by the professor with but few more gestures than the speaker himself used. The intelligent and expressive faces of the children indicated that every point and idea was caught. dicated that every point and idea was caught. At points when the address particularly met their approval, they demonstrated it by vigorous stamping and clapping.

At its conclusion Professor Wyckoff illustrated the methods of awakening the minds of the children to whom speech and the sense of hearing are denied. The illustrations were very expressive, and conveyed to the visitors a clear idea of the patience and skill required to develop the minds of these pupils.

Manufacturing in the Bluffs. The advantages of Council Bluffs as a manufacturing center are being very strikingly exemplified by the success of the new factories that have recently commenced operations in the city. The experimental era has past and the days of practical application of the long admitted fact that the city offers the best advantages for all kinds of manufactures to be found in the west, have ome. There is not a factory, large or small, come. There is not a factory, large or small, that has located here in the past few years that was not prosperous from the start and steadily grown since under proper business management. The Keyes Bros. carriage and spring wagon factory is a notable instance. The company was induced to locate here upon the representations of the board of trade that the city world afford them facilities for increasing their business, and how well those representations were fulfilled is amply attested by the magnificent four-story amply attested by the magnificent four-story brick block on First avenue that has already grown too small for their use. The contract with the board of trade called for the employment by Keyes Bros. of not less than twenty-five men, in return for the slight assistance given them. It was late in the winter before work in the factory was commenced with fifteen men. Now seventycommenced with fifteen men. Now seventy-five men are employed and more are still de-sired. A BEE reporter went through the immense factory yesterday, and found it to be one of the busiest places in the city. He was shown just an even 1,000 carriages bug-gies and road vehicles in process of con-struction, and several car loads ready for shipment. Think of it! Making carriages and buggies, not by the tens of dozens, but snipment. Think of it! Making carriages and buggies, not by the tens of dozens, but by the thousands! And right here in Council Bluffs, too. Inquiry revealed the fact that they were not making this immense number of vehicles for fun or for the purpose of putting them upon some unknown or future market, but were making them upon specific orders and were away behind with their contracts. The trade covers our own and all adjoining states and reaches

OF SUMMER GOODS.

We commence to day the most stupendous sale of thin Coats and Vests. We advertised last week that we have closed out the entire stock of a manufacturer of summer goods at figures that will enable us to sell them this season AT 50 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR. The warm weather is here and the goods are here, and we are ready to make good what we promised. The goods are on our counters on the second floor; we are sorry we can't keep them on the ground floor, but there is not room enough for them there, as they will fill nearly onehalf of the entire floor. Still you need not climb any stairs, as the elevator takesyou up.

We have thin Coats and Vests enough to supply every man in Omaha, and we ought to sell every Coat and Vest there is sold in Omaha this season. Every man, who values money--and who does not--ought to buy his summer outfit of us. Competition is nowhere.

We will give you some of the prices, but that does not tell much. THE GOODS TELL THE STORY, and only by an inspection of the goods can a correct idea be formed of the wonderful values we are offering in this sale.

A son of Chester A. Evans, aged about twelve years, Tuesday forenoon fell from a hay loft, receiving a fracture of the right arm at the wrist. Disease and Death Porce their way into many a household that might be protected from their inroads by the simple precaution of keeping in the house that benign family medicine and safeguard of health, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Particularly where there are children should it be kept on hand as a prompt remedy for infantile complaints, in their outset easily conquerable, but which, if allowed to engraft themselves on the delicate childish organism, are not easily distodged, and speedily work grievous mischief. Irregularity of the bowels, indigestion and biliousness, are aliments of grayous miscaler. Frequinarry of the boweis, indigestion and biliousness, are ailments of common occurrence in the household. Children living in malarious regions are more liable to be attacked with chills and fever than adults, and the ravages of that fell disease in their system are speedier and more serious. In remote localities, far from processional aid, it is especially desirable.

JUNKETING EDUCATIONALISTS. They Now Want the Citizens to Pay Their Expenses.

At the last meeting of the board of education a bill was presented and referred to the finance committee, for $64 for expenses of members who went to Lincoln to lobby in the interest of a bill vesting the title of the high school site in the board, and against the bill vesting the title in the city. Five members of the board made the journey: Messrs Saville, Goodman, Spaulding, Rees and H. T. Clarke. Mr. Clarke says he went down on private business.

As there seems to be a diversity of opin ion as to the right of the board to pay bills of this character, the following members were seen and their opinion optuned. Sheriff Coburn thinks the whole thing is out of order, and that there is no law author izing the payment of such expenses.

Mr. H. T. Clarke denied that the mem bers went to Lincoln to "lobby," but says they went to "look after the interests of the city." He denied, very indignantly that they had been doing anything underhanded, and said he thought they used their best judgment in the matter. Mr. Goodman thinks the board should be

Mr. Goodman things the board should be allowed to contract any expense for the interests of the board and city. "If the board is to be tied hand and foot, what is the use of having a board?" He is of the opinion that the board should pay the bills of the members on their trip.

Mr. Fred Millard, a member of the financommittee, is opposed to the payment of the Mr. McConnell, chairman of the finance committee, thought the members should not be detailed to go to Lincoln or anywhere. pay their own expenses. He was not pre-pared to express an official opinion on the matter, as the committee have not yet held a meeting to consider it, but he was favorably inclined towards the payment of it.

Samuel Rees, a member of the board, and also of the legislative committee, was seen and asked what he had to say concerning and asked what he had to say concerning the matter.

"I have given but cursory attention to the matter," said he, "but I can see no reason why the bill shouldn't be paid. The only question in the matter is, whether the board had authority to send the committee to Lincoln; if it hasn't authority, why is a legislative committee appointed. I only went down there once, and for the good of my pocket I think it is as well I didn't go oftener. My expenses on the occasion in question amounted to about $5, and I don't think any one could do much 'junketing' on that." The A. and A. S. Rite for the United States of America will hold a two days' ses-sion for the exemplification of the work and the chartering of the four bodies, beginning this morning at 10 o'clock and run ning through Thursday, closing Phursday evening with a banquet at the Millard.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles: After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."

— J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas. "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."— Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.
